Tournament Director's Notes:

1) Heather Hansen, although the only Woman playing in this event, chose to play all three rounds, even though there were many times she wanted to quit. You'll notice that her score got better with each round as evidence of her determination to continue playing.

2) The weather conditions for this event were a bit extreme, with strong winds blowing during each round.

3) A score of "999" indicates that the player did not complete that round.

4) The general consensus of the players was that this was a very fun event and they were glad to be able to participate. This was also the very first disc golf tournament that several of the players had ever participated in. One of those players who was playing in a tournament for the very first time was Nathan Dulfon, who took the Bronze in the Men's Intermediate Division.

5) The course at Three Peaks is a very tough and long course; with the length being just over five miles. The length coupled with the rough terrain makes this course very challenging, which tests the fortitude and endurance of the players.
